Early Retirement Policy in the Interest of Efficiency – Local Government Pension Scheme

1. Purpose of Report

In line with the Early Retirement Policy in the Interest of Efficiency it is requested that the Police and Crime Commissioner considers the following business case.

Early Retirement Policy in the Interest of Efficiency

At the Finance & General Purposes Committee meeting on the 19th March 2012, members approved proposals on flexible and early retirement.

This paper recommends a definitive policy on retirement on the grounds of efficiency under the provisions of the:

- Local Government Pension Scheme (Benefits, Membership & Contributions) Regulations 2007 (as amended)
- Local Government (Early Termination of Employment) (Discretionary Compensation) Regulations, 2006 (as amended)
- Local Government Pension Scheme (Administration) Regulations 2008.

An employee may be offered retirement in the efficiency of the service if they:

- are aged 55 or over
- · are members of the LGPS
- have 3 or more months membership or have transferred the equivalent pension rights into the LGPS.

An employee will be entitled to immediate payment of unreduced pension benefits and will also receive a severance payment. The Commissioner will award a severance payment based on the redundancy pay calculation multiplied by a factor of 2.5 giving a maximum redundancy payment of 75 weeks (see Appendix 1).

The costs to the employer will be the capital costs associated with an early release of pension benefit plus the cost of the additional severance payment awarded to the employee.

Any "business efficiency" retirement sanctioned by the Commissioner, should be justified by a business case showing the extent to which it:

- improves the effectiveness of the services provided,
- reduces the cost of providing those services or
- is supported by grounds of health or compassion.

based on a payback period of 3 years or less.

The consideration of retirements 'in the interest of efficiency' will originate from the Chief Financial Officer on behalf of the PCC.

There will be certain circumstances in which efficiency retirement may be appropriate and these are detailed in the following paragraphs:

- Where, due to no fault of an individual employee, the work method or job content have altered to the extent that they affect fundamentally the competence of the employee (e.g. technology changes, changes in legislation or organisation, development of professional standards).
- Where an employee has a particular medical condition which, whilst not considered by the Occupational Health Manager to justify retirement on the grounds of ill health, does significantly impede the proper performance of the job.
- When an employee has particular personal or domestic circumstances, which are overwhelming to the extent that the interests of the service suffer.
- Where, through a reorganisation or other reasons, the scope and content of the duties and responsibilities have diminished to the extent that, whilst not justifying redundancy, they nevertheless adversely affect the efficiency of the organisation.
- Where a combination of circumstances, both in the job and the individual are adversely affecting efficiency, but where these circumstances do not involve wilful inadequate performance, which should be more appropriately the subject of disciplinary or capability action.

2. Business Case

Mr Christopher Salmon, the Police and Crime Commissioner for Dyfed Powys Police, has in line with guidance from the Association of Police and Crime Commissioners (APCC) undertaken a review of the staffing arrangements of the Office of the PCC in Dyfed Powys, in line with his vision for the department. In considering his staffing requirements the PCC has instructed a review of his structure including the content of the Chief Executive Officers post and the redundancy of the post of the Assistant Chief Executive Officer (Appendix 2).

Under the statutory requirements the post of the Chief Executive (or equivalent) must remain within the OPCC structure and the role of this person will incorporate the statutory functions of Head of Paid Service and Monitoring Officer. However, the PCC has made a number of changes to this role profile and redesignated the role from 'Chief Executive' to that of 'Chief of Staff'.

Although the Chief of Staff role remains very much a part of the senior management team of the OPCC staffing structure, the PCC does not see this role being the equivalent status to that of a Chief Officer within Dyfed Powys. The role profile of 'Chief of Staff' has therefore been job evaluated in line with the Police Staff Council 13 Factor Job Evaluation Scheme and the salary banding has been graded as L, which attracts a salary of between £56,580 and £60,390.

As part of the restructure the PCC has also decided to remove the post of the Assistant Chief Executive and the new role of Chief of Staff is now an amalgamation of the previous role of the Chief Executive and the Assistant Chief Executive role profiles.

Business Efficiency

In line with the Early Retirement Policy and in the Interest of Efficiency it is considered that Mr Reeves, Chief Executive under the OPCC should be afforded retirement on the grounds of efficiency as he is:-

- are aged 55 or over -
- is a member of the LGPS
- has 3 or more month's membership or have transferred the equivalent pension rights into the LGPS.

This can be offered under the category:-

Where, through a reorganisation or other reasons, the scope and content of the duties and responsibilities have diminished to the extent that, whilst
not justifying redundancy, they nevertheless adversely affect the efficiency of the organisation.

Justification for the Decision

It is considered that offering Mr Reeves 'early retirement on the grounds in the interest of efficiency is appropriate due to the following reasons:-

- The restructure of the Office of the Police and Crime Commissioner (OPCC) has changed not only the scope and content of Mr Reeves current role of the Chief Executive, but has also reduced the status in comparison with Chief Officers in the Police Force and significantly reduced the amount of salary the post affords.
- The new role of 'Chief of Staff' does not match and slot to the previous Chief Executive role and as such places Mr Reeves in an at risk situation. This however, does not necessarily justify redundancy as Mr Reeves would be eligible to be considered for redeployment to the new role.

The cost of retirement of Mr Reeves on efficiency is attached at (Appendix 3), the payback period would be achieved within a 3 year period.
